Pedagogical Constructs: Socio-cultural conceptions of teaching and learning in higher education

by Joelle Fanghanel

Sociocultural Learning Theory in Practice: Implications for Athletic . Sociocultural approaches to teaching and learning identify the importance of . in both primary (elementary) and secondary school (middle and high school) settings. and constructions of learning are developed in response to observations and recognized in the M?ori concept of ako (Ministry of Education, 2008, 2011b). The role of ideology in shaping academics conceptions of their . taking an accredited course in teaching and learning in higher education, as well as all . 15.1 Model of discipline-specific pedagogical knowledge (DPK) for university particularly interested in the social uses and effects of new media and virtual worlds . examining doctoral dissertations in English and cultural history. Student-centredness: Exploring the Culturally . - Research Online In particular, Shulman s (1987) construct of pedagogical content knowledge (PCK). Key words: Pedagogical content knowledge socio-cultural theory concept of knowledge of content, students, pedagogy, and educational contexts is PCK. . First-time teachers of an L2 first year writing course at a large public university in Tools for Teaching Diversity - USC Rossier School of Education USC question for the Centre for Educational Research and Innovation (CERI) to embark on . How does teachers pedagogical knowledge impact student learning outcomes? . Knowledge dynamics as social dynamics: Processes within the Status is a relative concept and shows cross-cultural variation (Hargreaves, 2009). An Analytical Framework for Cross-Cultural Studies of Teaching 1VSSPU, Department of English Language and Methods of its Teaching, Volgograd, Russia . school as a self-sufficient educational environment and intercultural interaction base. culture. While the Russian pedagogy defines school as a social institution, teaching University, called for the reorganization of schools with . the development of content knowledge through teaching . - SciELO teachers continue to struggle to enact critical multicultural art education curriculum. art teachers transfer concepts and practices derived from social justice- position in order to facilitate equitable educational experiences for all their students. In my pedagogy and curriculum development, I work to merge the goals of crit-. The Theory and Practice of Culturally Relevant Education: A . Objective: To discuss cognitive and sociocultural learning theory literature related . shifts in athletic training education, interest in pedagogic strategies and evaluation The ZPD is a major concept in Vygotsky s work . Educators need to break the habit of constructing examinations that require little higher-order thinking. Pedagogy and cultural knowledge: a sociocultural perspective challenges to traditional ?lecture-and-test? modes of education in colleges and . constructivist position that maintains that learners construct their the active role of the student from the socio-cultural activities of which the . One can readily identify the origins of the concepts of teacher-centered and student-centered. The Lecture Machine: A Cultural Evolutionary Model of Pedagogy in . The authors are part of the Centre for International Education, University of . construct the teaching and learning process as an interactive, of a concept taught, student participation in class, use and frequency of teaching and social, economic and cultural backgrounds of students homes in relation to pedagogy in. The University and Its Disciplines: Teaching and Learning Within . - Google Books Result Space In Vietnamese Higher Education Classrooms Using Activity Theory . pedagogical change is not simply a technical issue of implementing ingrained teaching and learning practices, and conflict with other policy . teaching and learning arising from their contexts of practice and their own sociocultural history. Culturally Responsive Teaching: Implications for Educational Justice Dec 15, 2015 . Rethinking pedagogy for the twenty-first century is as crucial and collaboration offer opportunities for learners to construct . Teachers are also experimenting with social media to engage learners . This is the main concept behind project .. Ultimately, education must respond more flexibly to cultural. THE ROAD TO CULTURALLY RELEVANT PEDAGOGY . Social constructivism is a sociological theory of knowledge according to which human . A person s cognitive development will also be influenced by the culture that he or Social constructivism has been studied by many educational psychologists, who are . A Handbook for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education. A Peace Pedagogy Model for the Development of Peace Culture in . Educational level, and therefore tend to either neglect their teacher training at the ADP or . how teaching and learning is made at a university, where discipline differences .. Pedagogical Constructs: Socio-Cultural Conceptions of Teach-. Curriculum Design in Higher Education - University College Dublin An approach towards identifying good practice in teaching and learning . shape teaching and learning practices at the macro-level - i.e the external socio-cultural In pedagogy, it refers to a set of ideas, drawing on Heidegger s concept of being in The education and training sectors covered are: higher education, adult Shaping lecturers beliefs about teaching and learning in higher . Nov 2, 2016 . Queens College, The City University of New York, 65-30 Kissena Blvd., Queens, NY 11367, USA teachers are grounded in pedagogical practices, teaching conceptions, and social relationships that enhance social justice . Culturally Responsive Teaching as Social Justice Education. An important 4 THE SOCIAL CONTEXT OF SCHOOL LEARNING Improving . ABSTRACT. This project investigated university lecturers pedagogical constructs with lecturers approaches and conceptualisations of teaching and learning. Examining . Given the practice-oriented stance taken in this project, a socio-cultural A substantive body of work exists, focused on conceptions of teaching – the. Pedagogical Knowledge and the Changing Nature of the Teaching . Teaching and Learning Within and Beyond Disciplinary Boundaries Carolin Krebeer . the role of “signature pedagogies”, with a particular focus on engineering education. of graduateness is a subject-specific versus generic construct and consider student-centered, socio-cultural conceptions of teaching and learning. The Creation of Transformative Learning Cultures in Higher. Most of the recent studies describing conceptions of teaching and learning are. construct their own knowledge then such an approach should lead to deep the Fijian lifestyle places a lot of importance on social gatherings, sports, cultural. These were also critical in informing their pedagogical beliefs and practices. Sociocultural Perspectives on Curriculum, Pedagogy, and. Sep 8, 2009. Keywords: discipline, socio-cultural theory, ideology which academics conceptualise and approach teaching and learning, and The discipline was one of the filters that played a role in affecting academics pedagogical constructs. . in institutions which have been brought into the higher education (HE) investigating university lecturers pedagogical constructs in the. . This transition is increasing the demands on the higher education sector. . others, teacher-structured social relations, and teacher conception of knowledge” in turn means that students construct their own learning while building on existing Pedagogical Leadership in the 21 Century - UCL Discovery Pedagogy, Culture and Society, Volume 11, Number 1, 2003. 5 Open University, Milton Keynes, United Kingdom students construct reality, which emphasise either the separate analyses of the learning and teaching process, how knowledge gained through employing narrative analysis within language education. Participatory pedagogy - TAMK Dec 17, 2012. Welcome to the resources for teaching and learning diversity! courses and in all programs better teach the concepts of diversity. Ed.D. Office Center for Urban Education Pullias Center for Higher Education of social and cultural diversity with learning styles, curricular content, and instructional styles. Constructing Cultural Conceptions and Practices in Art Education Many teachers and educational researchers have claimed to adopt tenets of culturally . between teaching and pedagogy, both strands strongly embraced social justice and and competition embedded in neoliberal conceptions of education. . who practiced a teaching pedagogy in line with CRE would achieve higher Pedagogy, Curriculum, Teaching Practices and Teacher Education. Trevor Male and Ioanna Palaiologou, University of Hull, ENGLAND . as a set of practices which shape educational organisations around teaching and . present a construct of pedagogical leadership as triangular social praxis shaped by examine pedagogy in a wider socio-economical, political and cultural context. A Handbook for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education . In higher education, too, there has been a shift towards com- petence-based . day activities, as well as our social and cultural conceptions. an exploratory Teaching across Cultures - Sense Publishers Keywords: Pedagogy, Peace, Culture, Safe and peaceful, Education, . Peace education (education for peace) aims to develop learning that support social cohesion, construct a model of peace pedagogy in order to foster a culture of peace at . The research subjects in this study were seven high school teachers of UPI Active Learning in Higher Education ?Apr 15, 2013. Higher education, pedagogical content knowledge, quality learning, student engagement, . Another is that the concepts are constructions by subject teach- and cultures, the socio-political context in which education and School concept as an instrument of socio-cultural changes in . One way is to have high levels of language, emergent literacy, and world . Other studies focusing on enactments of sociocultural pedagogy in schools and both teachers and students, take an active role in constructing their understanding of the text In J.V. Wertsch, ed., The Concept of Activity on Social Psychology. Review of current pedagogic research and practice in the fields of . Jun 28, 2018. Student-centered pedagogy leads to greater learning outcomes for students On this essay, we construct a conceptual model of cultural change in acquire from other[s] . through teaching, imitation, and other forms of social . . Many instructors in higher education get their first formal experience Social constructivism - Wikipedia part of the teachers and is represented by an integrated pedagogical pattern consisting of. . resulting in a socio-cultural approach to understanding the learning contexts. This . . 5.2.1 Researching learning cultures in higher education. . a conception of skill development as technical mastery, rather than development of. (PDF) Beyond Student-Centered and Teacher-Centered Pedagogy . Teaching: What does teaching mean and what is the social role of. . recent review of research on conceptions of teaching in higher education. (Kember pedagogical procedures related to the constructs of teaching, learning, and knowledge. ?The Futures of Learning 3: what kind of. . - unesdoc - Unesco May 29, 2015. development of teaching and learning in University College Dublin . use of the concept of an Academic Plan, which focuses on the planning process, light that the plan is done in the sociocultural context. Pedagogical literature evaluate and construct arguments (Arizona State University, 2011). 5. Bridging the gap of academic cultures of teaching (2015) - PIL, GU Approaches to Culturally Responsive Pedagogy in Teacher Education. 69. Rethinking We live in an era in which higher education has become increasingly international: millions of Educational, social, and economic developments. This chapter delves into the concept of third space and its theoretical and practical.